

Papan Demands an Explanation

By JANET PARKER

Shock waves registered throughout San Mateo County Sunday as word of Congressman Leo J. Ryan's slaying reached the friends and politicians who watched his rise to national prominence.

There was also anger that Ryan's contingent to Guyana didn't receive more protection and support from the U.S. State Department.

"I think the next move should come from the president," said a saddened Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, D-San Mateo County.

The situation in Guyana should be immediately assessed, Papan related. If there are people being held there against their will, this country should see that the government of Guyana does something about getting those persons who want to leave out of that country.

"I'm absolutely shocked," Papan said reflecting on the death of Ryan. Papan succeeded Ryan in the 19th District assembly seat when Ryan was elected to Congress.

Papan said he's stunned that the "fanatics" in Guyana didn't have more regard for a member of Congress.

"I'm particularly concerned for the lack of effort on the part of our government to assess the lives of the 1,200 people making up that colony," Papan said.

"I feel that our state department should have been the governmental agency that could have provided many of the concerned families with some definite answers as to what was going on in Guyana," he added.

"I am totally saddened by the loss of Congressman Ryan and the other people of the media who went down there to find out what was going on," he said.

It's the responsibility of the state department, he said, to have "basic knowledge" of Americans in other countries as it does with the Peace Corps and the military.

This country, he said, should find out why there is a reluctance on the part of the Americans there to come home if they are being kept against their will.

The assemblyman said he met with one of the members of the Ryan party, former Belmont resident Steven Katsaris, earlier this year. Katsaris' daughter, Maria, is one of those associated with the People's Temple and he was frustrated with the inability to generate concern about all the Americans who are in the colony.

"I'm so hurt by it," Papan added. "He's always been the kind of guy who wanted the information first hand. This time he got it for the state department which should have been doing the job."

"People down there obviously didn't want the news to get out and they wouldn't have killed him and the news people," Papan said.

State Senator Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo County, has known Ryan for 20 years. Gregorio was president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in South San Francisco when Ryan was a councilman.

"My feelings are absolutely of shock and disbelief," Gregorio said. "What a terribly tragic thing."

"He was always outspoken — very much a noticeable voice for causes," Gregorio said.

"He had a way and a style that few people in political office have been able to achieve," Gregorio said.

"I think that the state department is going to spend a lot of time and effort on this one," the senator added.

In Washington D.C., a spokeswoman in the office of Congressman Paul McCloskey said the representative almost went on this trip to Guyana with Ryan.

She said Ryan wrote a letter to McCloskey recently asking him to join the contingent. However, McCloskey already had plans to be "overseas" at this time on business, she related. McCloskey has also followed the People's Temple controversy and has been involved with constituents who have family members in Guyana.

"We're a little apprehensive at this time," she said explaining why McCloskey's whereabouts are not being revealed. "We're a bit afraid for him."

Local officials were stunned at the loss of a legislator who they often disagreed with but also respected.

Millbrae Councilman Art Lepore, a Capuchino High School government teacher, worked with Ryan in the early 1960s when Ryan also was teaching at the San Bruno campus.

"He was always very responsive to me and to constituents' problems," Lepore said. "If Leo thought there was a constituent in need, he would go."

REP. LEO J. RYAN

Reflecting on Ryan's Career

By GEORGE GOLDING

Representative Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo County, 53, died in Guyana, South America, Saturday while trying to help people from this area learn about their relatives in a religious commune.

Ryan, who had been representing the people of this county for more than 20 years, was a native of Lincoln, Neb.

His parents were Leo J. Ryan Sr. and Autumn M. Ryan, both newspaper people. Ryan was brought up in Chicago, New York, Florida and Massachusetts.

He finished high school in Wisconsin, then attended Boston College and Bates College as a wartime Navy student. He was already teaching in Omaha schools when he obtained his teaching degree from Creighton University at Omaha in 1949. He was a high school principal and superintendent of schools in Nebraska before coming to San Mateo County in the 1950s.

He married Margaret "Peg" Casson and fathered five children: Christopher, Shannon, Patricia, Kevin and Erin.

Already winning a public name as an English teacher at San Mateo Union High School District's newest high school, Capuchino, and president of the local Democratic club, Ryan was named to the South San Francisco Recreation Commission in April of 1955.

He was a veteran of the Navy submarine service in the Pacific during World War II, was active in the Buri Buri Men's Club and the St. Veronica's Men's Club, the American Legion and the Elks.

He also found time for the United Crusade, the City of Hope and the Heart Fund, becoming well-enough known to win a seat on the City Council.

Within a short time, Ryan had won a reputation as a campaigner against airport noise, a battler against the proposed Southern Crossing across San Francisco Bay, and a supporter of a new University of California campus in San Mateo County.

He was also active in the North County Council of Cities, a forum of ideas for North County city officials and a power base for those working their way up the political ladder.

And Ryan was political.

By 1958, he was vice mayor of South San Francisco and was seeking the state Assembly job held by Republican Louis Francis. He was vice chairman of a 1959 telecast celebrating Harry Truman's 75th birthday, and was named by Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown to a commission to determine whether there should be a regional authority for airports, toll bridges and harbors.

Although Ryan's first bid for the Assembly was not successful, he handily won re-election to the South San Francisco City Council in 1960, serving with Emilio Cortesi, Frank Bertucelli and Guido Rozzi.

That year he withdrew from the Assembly race, blaming a dispute within the county Democratic party. But in the election campaign that followed, he was verbally battling Millbrae attorney William Gately for his party's support.

Ryan was elected mayor of South San Francisco in April of 1962, and Assemblyman from the 27th District in November.

He was the county's first Democrat elected to state office in 106 years.

On taking his Assembly seat in January of 1963, Ryan resigned his South San Francisco post and took a leave of absence from the San Mateo Union High School District. Later, he was to return to the district as a substitute teacher, instructing classes in civics and government.

From then on, the Ryan career was an active one.

Ryan's Funeral to Be Held Locally Wednesday

The body of Leo Ryan was returned home by plane Tuesday morning, landing at San Francisco International Airport within sight of Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno where he will be buried Wednesday.

The slain Congressman came home in a metal casket carried in the cargo hold of an Air Force C141 jet from the 437th Military Airlift Wing at Charleston, S.C.

Three other bodies of those killed with him in Guyana on Saturday were aboard the plane when it took off from Charleston.

One, that of NBC newsman Don Harris, had been taken off in Georgia. Two others, in wooden caskets, remained aboard the plane to be taken to Los Angeles today.

Ryan's body was met by his first wife, Peg, their children, and friends including Joseph Karp of Hillsborough and George Corey of Millbrae, and by his close friend and aide, Joe Holsinger.

Also in the group was Burlingame Mayor William Crosby, a longtime friend and head of the mortuary firm of Crosby-N. Gray, where Leo's body lay in state Tuesday and this morning.

At the Crosby-N. Gray chapel, the closed casket was draped with an American flag, and placed on a pedestal before a small statue of Christ on the cross.

Visitors began calling at the mortuary shortly after 9 a.m. and were expected to continue arriving all day and into the night. A Burlingame police officer was on duty in the chapel, as part of the security devised in response to telephoned threats since the slaughter in Guyana.

At 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, the body is to be transferred to All Souls Catholic Church in South San Francisco.

Crosby said final arrangements were to be made at a meeting of family and close friends at All Souls Church, but that it appears Ryan may have asked for a naval chaplain to perform the final rites. There will be no rosary, Crosby said.

Following church rites, Rep. Ryan is to be buried at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno, in recognition of his national status and naval service in World War II.

Members of Ryan's family have asked that anyone wishing to make memorial gifts in Ryan's name, contribute to Greenpeace.

Dump Closure Ignored

Regional Water Quality Control Board officials have chosen to ignore Daly City's failure to close the Mussel Rock dump site on time, according to City Manager David Rowe.

Rowe informed the City Council at a Monday study session that a RWQCB representative told him that the board will not take any legal steps against Daly City as long as the work on the dump continues to the board's satisfaction.

The board had given Daly City an Oct. 31 deadline for completing grading, stabilizing the earth and closing the dump.

The city plans to put a park on the site of the old dump.

Rowe also reported that Mussel Rock grading will cost an additional $30,000, since federal officials had put two dirt hauling vehicles out of business after declaring them unsafe.

However, Rowe said, the overall cost of the Mussel Rock project will not exceed the $250,000 originally estimated, since the city saved money on materials.

For Hillside Park Money Available

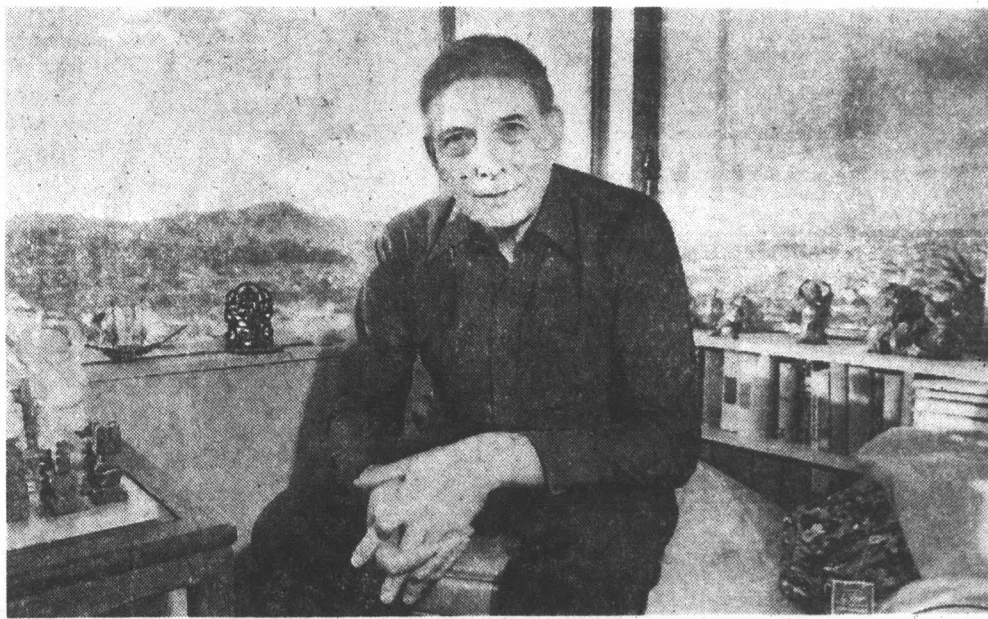

There's enough money in the bank to build a seven-acre park in the Hillside section of Daly City, members of the City Council learned Monday.

Fred DeJarlais, coordinator of the city's Housing and Community Development Act Task Force, told the council that Daly City has $408,600 on hand — out of a total of $884,000 in city, state and federal funds that have been appropriated for Hillside Park over the past three years.

City officials estimated the first phase of the project will cost $400,000, and said they believe additional funds can be acquired before work on the second phase must begin.

In unveiling plans for the park

PART OF RYAN PARTY

Attorney Charles Garry of Daly City was one of the members of Congressman Leo J. Ryan's party that went to Guyana to investigate the People's Temple operation there. Garry went as an attorney representing the temple, and was not at the airfield when the murders took place. He is reportedly safe and at Jonestown, the country's capital city.

Six Motions — Five Minutes

Council 'Beats the Clock'

Daly City City Council members seemed to be playing "Beat the Clock" at a special meeting Monday night. They passed six motions in less than five minutes.

Even the most controversial item, the extension of a housing rehabilitation consultant's contract, didn't generate any discussion.

With Vice Mayor Victor Kyriakis presiding in Mayor William Schumacher's absence, the council voted unanimously to extend Connerly and Associates' contract through Jan. 15, 1979.

The firm, which assists the city with rehabilitation loan applications, has been frequently criticized by members of the Original Daly City Protection Association.

In other action, the council:

- Authorized the execution of agreements which extend the city's participation in the Public Service Employment Program, a project funded with federal money under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

San Mateo County will administer the CETA funds that Daly City receives for 1978-79.

- Passed a resolution amending the salary schedule for recreation leaders.

Under the change, the leaders may be paid from

- Granted an exception to the city's rehabilitation loan limit of $10,000 for one unidentified homeowner whose special circumstances were discussed during an executive session of the council.

- Amended a resolution accepting the conveyance of a deed for a portion of Hillside Park to include one owner's name that had been left out by mistake from a previous resolution.

- Adopted higher subdivision fees.

Kyriakis recessed the meeting to executive session "in memory of Leo Ryan, who gave his life for his constituents."

Second Look at Sewer Charges

Outraged citizens succeeded Monday in persuading directors of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District to take a second look at sewer charges recently mailed to residents the district serves in Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma.

At their regular Monday meeting, Directors William Schumacher, Albert Teglia and Edward Fitzgerald voted unanimously to require the district to recompute all the sewer charges because of errors found on some bills.

One of the residents who complained about the charges was Ralph Damon of Garden Village, an unincorporated area. Damon gave several examples of homeowners receiving erroneous bills, including one man who was overcharged by $59.

The sewer charges for the months of November through February are included in property tax bills.

Damon commented, "Most people are so pleased with the overall reduction of their bill due to Proposition 13 that they haven't bothered to look at their sewer charges at all."

drawn up by the Hillside Park Planning Committee. Recreation Director Charles Vincent noted that the city has purchased nearly seven acres of land and has long-range plans to buy four more acres.

Vincent said the park will have two tennis courts, one multi-purpose court, a bocci ball court, barbecue pits, a tot lot and about 40 parking spaces.

The Hillside Park Planning Committee, formed in January, decided not to include baseball diamonds, opting instead for open playing fields.

The long-range plans call for a parcourse, a building with a capacity of 150 persons (available for groups to rent) and a roof for the bocci ball court.

Vincent said he is not convinced that a pond favored by some members of the committee would be in the public's best interest, since young children could drown in it.

Albert Kane, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission, and Frank Loretta of the Hillside Homeowners Association said those groups support the Hillside Park Planning Committee's proposal.

One member of the Hillside Park Planning Committee, Edward Quinteros, said, "I've waited 26 years to see something materialize. I don't mind waiting a little while longer."

battle to obtain a university campus in San Mateo County, joining Republican Assemblyman Carl "Ike" Britschgi of Redwood City in a campaign which eventually resulted in the state's purchase of property on Edgewood Road. The site remains undeveloped.

Named vice chairman of the Assembly Education Committee during his first year in the Legislature, Ryan developed such a sound reputation that Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh came to South San Francisco at the end of the session to speak at a testimonial dinner for the freshman legislator.

For several years, Ryan continued to be active in efforts related to education, introducing several pieces of legislation related to schools, teachers and students.

In that same first session, he was named by Unruh to an assignment that was to forecast his role in Congress many years later. Ryan was named by Unruh to an "oversight" committee to audit state spending, just as he was later to be named in Congress to an oversight committee on governmental operations.

Assemblyman Ryan proposed that political campaigns be government-tally financed as a means of eliminating undue influence from large contributors. Years later, this became a part of the nation's elections system.

He was never a foreigner to controversy, taking an active part in 1964 in the state hearings on whether a teacher in Paradise had her civil rights violated when she was fired for alleged un-Americanism.

Ryan was invited to Japan, the first of his fact-finding tours as a legislator. In later years, he would visit Russia, the Middle East and the Orient on congressional committee assignments. He has been described as one of the most-traveled members of Congress.

He made a number of appointments, including naming Joseph Holsinger of Burlingame, a business furniture dealer, to the state Democratic Central Committee. Years later, Holsinger was to become Ryan's right-hand man in San Mateo County while the congressman was in Washington.

Assemblyman Ryan authored legislation requiring that California schools teach a second language, and supported a law which allows city council members to be paid.

He challenged San Mateo County state Sen. Richard Dolwig in 1965, who then proposed to split California into two states. "I will personally halt the Dolwig plan," Ryan said.

Ryan described the Dolwig move as a refusal to do something about reapportionment of California's electoral districts. The boundaries of his own district have been shifting ever since. As that progressed, he moved from Escanero Drive in South San Francisco to a hilltop house in Burlingame's Mills Estate.

The Burlingame home was one of those built on a filled slope and, like others, suffered an earthslide in its back yard. Ryan was active in obtaining legislative relief for homeowners suffering similar problems.

Always involved in groups seeking more San Mateo County control over San Francisco International Airport, the assemblyman unsuccessfully fought San Francisco state Sen. Eugene McAteer's move in 1965 to end taxation of the airport by this county.

He called the first legislative hearing of airport matters that summer, after a Pan American World Airways plane lost an engine and part of a wing over San Bruno and South San Francisco, in Ryan's Assembly district.

In 1966, Ryan shocked San Mateo County by announcing that the area's Republican member of Congress, J. Arthur Younger, was going to retire for reasons of health, and was concealing that decision.

Younger countered Ryan's remarks with a strong blast, calling political "foul" and suggesting that Ryan was seeking election to the halls of Congress.

A freeway was named for Congressman Younger, although it has since become better known as 19th Avenue Freeway or State Sign Route 92, and Ryan has been active in Congress this year, obtaining federal approval for money to be spent repairing a section of the J. Arthur Younger Freeway.

Politically, Ryan was in hot water with his own party in 1966, but he opened his campaign for re-election to the Assembly with a family picnic featuring the "Re-elect Ryan Girls," a cheerleading team of the type then popular in national campaigns. Despite opposition, Ryan was elected to his third term, handily steamrolling his Republican opponent.

He supported school unification proposals and joined with Sen. Dolwig to get money for a Junipero Serra overpass after a schoolgirl was killed.

In April of 1967, Ryan was named as one of three San Mateo County men who might successfully win election to Congress to replace J. Arthur Younger. It was expected Younger would retire in 1968. The other possible Democratic contenders were county Supervisor Bob St. Clair and San Mateo County Superintendent of Schools Dr. J. Russell Kent.

By July, the county's Democratic Central Committee, chaired by Arlen Gregorio, saw Ryan as the most viable candidate for Congress, and asked him to make a decision. Ryan said he would not run, and Pete McCloskey eventually won the seat.

However, Ryan continued acting like a candidate, blasting University of California for student unrest and saying striking students should be suspended. He said student revolts at San Francisco State, then headed by S.I. Hayakawa, were due to "faculty weakness."

He said congressional candidates would do better to address themselves to the problems of freeways in San Mateo County than to the federal government's rightness or wrongness in Vietnam.

Ten years ago, early in 1968, Ryan was brushed with tragedy when his Sacramento office secretary, Miriam Martin, was beaten to death in her suburban home by an unknown assailant.

Within three weeks, two teenagers were arrested for the killing, described as resulting from a burglary. Ryan was known to have taken the incident very hard. He said the brutality of the death sickened him.

He threw himself into legislative work, seeking state funds for kidney ailment victims, debating with college professors over student misbehavior, challenging the state's department of veterans affairs.

Ryan was also active in party politics, and went to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968 as a delegate for Robert F. Kennedy. He had announced his split with President Lyndon Johnson, who failed — according to Ryan — to choose the proper Californians for the Chicago convention.

The active San Mateo legislator was unopposed for election to the Assembly, and continued his 12-year fight against a "southern crossing" of San Francisco Bay from Alameda to India Basin in San Francisco. If such a crossing should be built, he contended, it should end at Sierra Point in San Mateo County.

In the primary election that June, Ryan won 42,516 votes in the Democratic party poll, and 1,552 in the Republican balloting. Together, those amounted to more votes than were cast for five other Assembly candidates from this county and won him the nomination of both parties. While serving as an assemblyman, Ryan spent 10 days as a substitute teacher in Watts, to learn firsthand of conditions there. He later described the experience as a "teaching nightmare."

Long interested in regional government, he made sure in the Assembly that the Association of Bay Area Governments, created by the efforts of Assemblyman John Knox, had controlling representation by local agencies.

Never afraid to use his power as a political figure, Ryan took a strong stand against the proposed West Bay Rapid Transit Authority in 1969. His position was echoed by the county Board of Supervisors, who rejected a plan that might have led San Mateo County into the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

In 1970, Ryan had himself confined to Folsom prison to study conditions there, and subsequently introduced legislation to improve matters.

Ryan was completing his fifth term in the assembly in 1972 and was ready to move to Congress when this area was restructured to form the 11th Congressional District.

He announced for the post early in the year and, on Nov. 8, garnered 113,580 votes. His nearest opponent's total was 69,655. He rapidly became known for his position on Vietnam, his opposition to Russian fishing fleets sailing the coastal waters of California, and his support of campaigns to save the whales and protect the Harp Seals.

He was quickly named to the House Committee on Foreign Affairs and the Committee on Government Operations.

Editorial

Leo J. Ryan

Congressman Leo J. Ryan died while doing what a congressman is supposed to do — serving his constituents.

A Ryan hallmark was his insistence on getting information firsthand when he could. When he felt he needed to know about conditions in Folsom Prison, he spent a week there as a "prisoner." When he wanted information about the killing of baby seals in Newfoundland, he went there himself to get it.

Typically, it was a direct response to requests from his constituency that caused him to be in Guyana, where he was cut down by assassins' bullets.

Throughout his long — yet too short — career as teacher, school administrator, state assemblyman and United States congressman, Leo Ryan was a public servant in the true meaning of the term.

Full honors are due this brave and dedicated man who died in the service of his country.

Homecoming Success

By STEVE KAUFMAN
Westmoor is catching its breath after one of the best Homecoming Days ever. There were a few surprises during the festivities and it seemed as though all enjoyed themselves.

The entire event was covered by Channel 7. The idea of Westmoor being on television came from Rally Commissioner Mike Montes. He thought that it would make an interesting feature story and, after a few phone calls, talked to Joyce Shank, a reporter from Channel 7. She was excited about the story and agreed to film it.

The rally was recorded, with several students being interviewed. This was seen on the 6 o'clock edition of the news. Later that evening, Joyce and her cameraman came to the dance and filmed that. This was seen at 11 and many students enjoyed seeing themselves on television.

McMillan and Freshmen Princess Yvonne Castro. Westmoor has many active parents groups, but one among them has a special place in the school. This is the PTA. Recently, they made a substantial donation to the school's Career Center in order to buy a new, important career kit.

Mrs. Irene Gross, the Career Center aide, talked about the gift. "The center is no longer federally funded, so it was the decision of each individual school whether or not they wished to keep the center. Mr. Kollman, the school principal, said it would stay. He gave me a small budget with which to work."

Much to my dismay, I used up the budget replacing missing materials. We were planning to update one of our most important career tools — a kit which lists more than 500 careers, salaries and information relating to these jobs. When the federal money was removed, I hoped I would have some money left from my budget. When that ran out, I was going to forget the idea.

ham, the vice-president. Hopefully, if they put up some money, Mr. Kollman promised me that he would cover the rest.

"Mrs. Oxenham took the letter to the Executive Board, who voted unanimously to give us the money. However, I was completely and pleasantly shocked to discover that they gave us the full amount we requested. Mr. Blanche, the Vocational Counselor who works with Mrs. Gross, was equally as delighted and was very pleased that the PTA was going to help out the center."

"I think that this gesture shows that the PTA really has faith in our career vocational services. They have always been career minded, and this just reinforces the fact that they really care about the school. They wanted to present a gift that everyone can use, and I'm really indebted to them."

She went on to say she wants to let people know that this service is available to all and she encourages students to take advantage of it.

SamTrans to Purchase Lift-Equipped Buses

A request to ask for $575,000 from its reserve funds for eight new Redi-Wheels lift-equipped Redi-Wheels buses, lease-purchase of seven more, improvements at the North County Maintenance Base and some new office furniture was approved by the San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors this week.

The $325,000 for the eight buses, $75,000 for the seven others and $150,000 for the base improvements were approved unanimously Wednesday night, but $25,000 for office furniture drew some criticism from Director Edward Baccio, who said he didn't see a need for it.

General Manager John T. Mauro assured the board that this allocation should last the district two or three years and "We have no intention of a major changeover in office equipment or anything else."

Director Jack Bland said he supported the allocation because "We're setting up the availability of the money, not spending it."

The money is accrued sales tax money held by the county treasurer under federal Transit Development Act guidelines and must be requested by the local agency and released by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

The buses clearly are needed, Chairman Robert Payne said.

The furniture, such as desks and typewriters, have been paid for from operating funds till now, Mauro explained, but the district's auditors have recommended strongly that all items with a life expectancy of over two years be capitalized.

In other business the board:

- Heard from Mauro that ridership in September continued to climb, reaching 1,378,341, although the Southern Pacific rail commuter ticket subsidy plan riders fell off by about 20,000 to 136,376.

- Heard a Community Relations Committee report that Redi-Wheels ridership had reached a record 3,261 riders in August, has carried 34,000 passengers since it began in March 1977 and now has 132 subscribers, including 17 in wheelchairs.

- Heard from Citizens Advisory Committee Chairman Robert Feldscher that public comment on SamTrans service is mostly favorable now, prompting Payne to remark that "We're most happy to hear the feedback is more positive than negative."

- Okayed a contract for $69,956.53 with Kent Kiteman, Inc., of San Jose to retrofit lift platforms on seven Mercedes Benz buses for the Redi-Wheels program and to paint the buses.

- Approved an $11,619.12 contract with American Building Maintenance of San Carlos for maintenance services at the north and south maintenance bases.

- Learned that the Mainline routes, the system's busiest, are recovering 52 percent of their costs from the farebox on weekdays, over double the average systemwide.

- Approved a contract with Power Plus Batteries Co. of Oakland for bus batteries, at $71.25 each, the contract in conjunction with Alameda-Contra Costa Transit as the lead agency. This is considered a better price because of the volume buying power of the three transit agencies in the contract.

- Okayed specifications and a call for bids on a complete communications system, including 285 bus radios and a control center.

Revitalization 'Test' Sought

South San Francisco's City Council Wednesday ordered working drawings for downtown revitalization and directed city planners to keep working with property owners who want to form an assessment district to help pay for it.

The council emphasized, however, that planners should complete a so-called test portion of the project first.

Owners of more than 60 percent of the downtown property have petitioned the city to form an assessment district.

City Planner Bill Costanzo said the revitalization project will cost about $1.1 million.

Funding for this is expected to come from revenue sharing funds and federal community development funds, as well as money generated from an assessment district.

Preliminary plans for Grand Avenue call for the downtown portions of the street to be redesigned to encourage more foot traffic and to discourage vehicular traffic.

Several side streets would be used for parking areas.

The first phase of the project involves redesigning a portion of one of the Grand Avenue blocks to see how the total revitalization would work. One suggested "test" area involves the end of the 300 block of Grand Avenue at Linden Avenue, Costanzo said.

He said he prefers that area because those property owners are willing to remodel their storefronts at the same time.

Money from an assessment district would be used only for street and other capital improvements.

Storefront remodeling would be at the expense of the individual property owner.

For an assessment district to be formed, the owners of at least 60 percent of the downtown property must petition the city.

Costanzo said owners of about 65 percent of the property have made the request, and when city property is included, the figure is 75 percent.

"I think you have an overwhelming support for this project," said Costanzo, whose position has been that the city would not get involved in revitalization unless the businessmen wanted it.

He said about $650,000 in federal Housing and Community Development Act funds could be used for the project.

About $150,000 in revenue-sharing funds also is available, he added. City Manager Walter Birkelo noted that the staff was not asking that the assessment district be formed.

He said the staff merely wanted permission to continue to work on forming that district.

Some council members were troubled by the pilot project concept.

When the city planner said no decision had been made as to where the pilot project would be and that more study had to be made, some council members said a preliminary study of sites should have been made already.

Costanzo said the staff had to make sure the pilot project would not be in a disruptive location.

Council then agreed that because the term "pilot project" may be misleading, it would be referred to as Phase One in the future.

Although an overflow crowd attended the meeting, no one spoke against downtown revitalization.

Jewels Gone At Airport

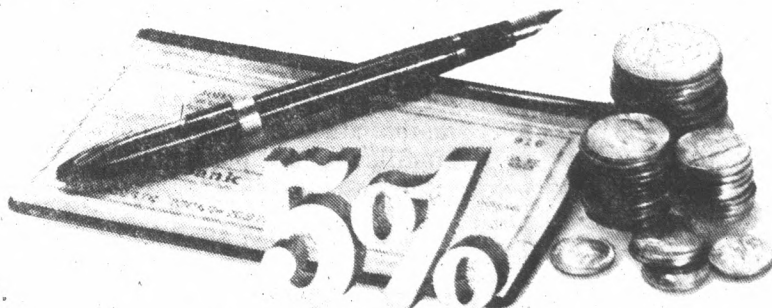

Officials of the Airborne Freight Corp. reported Wednesday that a 12-pound box containing $20,000 worth of jewelry had been stolen from its facility at the San Francisco International Airport, the sheriff's office reported today.

According to Sheriff's Deputy Mike Diltz, a company official reported the box was discovered missing about 7 p.m. after it had been delivered around 4 p.m. The jewelry was insured, Diltz reported.

Yule Project Changes Set

Operation Santa Claus/Christmas for Children Chairman Ralph Hall announced today the beginning of the 28th year of the Daly City project. He also indicated a major change in the project. This year the committee, composed of local residents, has determined that emphasis will be on Christmas for children. The policy change was brought about by the availability of other resources to needy families in provision of food. In past years, Operation Santa Claus had not only provided toys for children, but also Christmas dinner for the family as well.

Christmas gifts for children of needy families will be the mission of the project this year. Committee members are agreed that food stamps and other forms of welfare assistance fulfill the other holiday needs.

Though families have these resources, Christmas gifts for children are still an area of need.

Operation Santa Claus workers hope to see that no child in Daly City faces Christmas morning without a gift under the Christmas tree. Childhood memories of growing up in Daly City should be happy memories.

Participants in Operation Santa Claus/Christmas for Children have set happy memories of Christmas as their goal.

Should you care to share some Christmas joy with less fortunate neighbors, assistance is welcome. Contributions can be sent to: Operation Santa Claus/Christmas for Children, c/o Al Belotz, Suite 230-375 S. Mayfair Ave., Daly City, 94015.

Small or large cash donations are welcome.

Participants include the Operation Santa Claus Committee, consisting of Christmas Ralph Hall, co-founder Peter Markovich, Al Belotz, Marie Marcopelios, Larry Shaw, McRobert

Suicide by Youth

A teen-aged boy took his own life by standing in front of a southbound commute train north of the Southern Pacific depot Thursday afternoon as scores of horrified people looked on, Redwood City police reported today.

Officers and coroner's investigators listed the death of Darryl Spencer, 16, of 410 North Ninth Ave., Redwood City, a student at Carlmont High School, as a suicide. They reported he had been despondent since his brother took his own life by leaping off a building earlier this year.

Officer David Newman reported that engineer Glen King said that he was slowing down north of the Redwood City train depot preparing to stop when he saw the boy, with his arms outspread, in front of the locomotive.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

It's that time of the year the turkeys are looking back over their shoulders.

Dieters are looking ahead, dreading the next six weeks. I can understand what bugs the turkeys, but the dieters?

Why worry about staying on the diet during the holidays when there is no secret to it at all. Just select the right diet to begin, and you'll find a variety of foods to choose from. Variety, dear friends, is the spice of life.

So are cinnamon and nutmeg for starters. These old reliable kitchen chums team up to pep up ordinary, everyday foods. They're not for pies only, contrary to public opinion. They're for vegetable adventures. When you cook up some spinach, rain a short shower of nutmeg across it before serving. That's spinach with a difference, a surprise in the taste.

And what, you may ask, does this have to do with Thanksgiving and all the holidays beyond? Everything. You aren't going to seal yourself into a vacuum box for the next six weeks. You are going to live out there in the real world, full of real eating people. In fact, you are going to be an eating person yourself. So give yourself something to eat. Something you like. Something that tastes good. Something with a bit of flair.

When you face the actual big feasts, you'll have two things going for you. One, you're going to feel good about the way you treat yourself and your food needs daily. You've been good to you, which bolsters your resistance.

Two, there are so many things you can have — turkey, vegetables, and good company.

Have a happy vegetable tonight as a starter on your happy holidays.

Steers Have Odd Growths

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: We recently purchased four Angus steers for our ranch property. While feeding them worming pills, we noticed that one has a growth in two areas — on top of its head and in the jaw area. They are bulbous, whitish-grey, scaly and hard. Could you identify them? Could you recommend a book to help us identify other problems?

ANSWER: Naturally I can't give you any information concerning these growths without examining them. They could be dangerous and spread to the other steers, or they may be totally innocuous. Certainly your veterinarian can identify them and remove them if necessary and advise you of the proper treatment concerning them. Contact the Agricultural (Cooperative) Extension Service for general information concerning husbandry and general health problems in your steers. They have large amounts of information available and should be very helpful to you.

QUESTION: I have two spayed female dogs eight and nine years old. Lately they have been eating each other's stool before I can pick it up. How can I break this habit? Is there something I could add to their food? I feed them the same food — Kibbles and a stew I make mixed with brewer's yeast and Vitamins E tablets.

ANSWER: This rather unpleasant habit is fairly common among dogs that are bored due to lack of exercise or are just left alone for long periods. Often the problem corrects itself if the animal's habits are changed. In most cases it is not due to a dietary deficiency. I have heard that the addition of a small amount (about one teaspoonful) of meat tenderizer to the food each day will correct the problem. Try it.

QUESTION: Do birds have a mating season? It seems to me that we have a great number of birds in our yard around this time of year. I have the impression that in a moderate California climate they would be laying and hatching all year long.

ANSWER: Birds have a

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Tomorrow is turkey day and I know your meal will be delicious, delightful and de-lovely. And you'll probably have some of that delicious, delightful and de-lovely turkey leftover to nibble on for a few days. When you are about to the end of the nibbling and want to finish it up in a blaze of glory, try this turkey pie.

1-2-3 TURKEY PIE

- 1 cup diced cooked turkey
- 1 cup cubed, cooked potatoes
- ½ cup cooked carrots, peas or cut green beans
- 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning, or as desired
- 1 cup packaged biscuit mix
- one-third cup milk

Combine the one cup cooked turkey, one cup cooked cubed potatoes and half-cup cooked vegetables in a quart and half casserole. Blend the one can cream of chicken soup with the fourth-cup milk, one tablespoon minced onion and fourth-teaspoon poultry seasoning; pour over turkey and regular mating season, usually in the spring, and they don't often deviate from this unless they are kept in artificial conditions. The amount of light seems to be very influential in stimulating mating and egg production and the longer days of spring triggers the mechanism that causes mating.

vegetables. Bake in preheated hot (450-degree) oven for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, combine the one cup biscuit mix with the third-cup milk, roll one-half inch thick and cut into six biscuits. Remove casserole from oven; place biscuits on top. Return to oven and continue baking about 15 minutes or until biscuits are browned.

This makes 3 servings. As you can see, it is a simple matter to double this recipe. In which case we could rename the recipe to the 2-4-6 turkey pie. Happy holidays.

Rec Leaders Old Pay Restored

Forty recreation leaders in Daly City will be paid $1.24 more per hour than their colleagues.

The Daly City City Council allocated $7,750 Monday for higher wages for experienced recreation leaders laid off last summer when Proposition 13 cutbacks were made.

The Parks and Recreation Commission requested that $4.24 per hour be paid to these experienced recreation leaders, instead of the going rate of $3 per hour, so that they would be enticed back into their old jobs.

Recreation Director Charles Vincent explained in a memo to City Manager David Rowe that it would cost $7,750 to hire back the experienced leaders at $4.24 per hour and it would cost an additional $25,200 to pay all recreation leaders that rate.

Le Pacini

It's becoming increasingly more difficult to defend and/or be proud of the sports end of the so-called "media" because of the incompetents, sensation seekers and cheap shot artists beginning to overpopulate the trade.

Some of these guys make Howard Cosell look like Father Flanagan.

Incompetents we can forgive. Expansion in sports and affirmative action programs have caused an infusion of inexperience into the business, but time eventually will weed out the no-talents and lend the proper experience to those who manage to hang in there.

But there are no excuses for the sensation seekers and cheap shot artists.

Just recently, for example, there was the young, until then unknown Nevada sportswriter who, claims Billy Martin, goaded the former-future Yankee manager into punching him; a blow which suddenly put the young, formerly unknown writer on the wires, proudly displaying his black eye and giving a breathless, blow-by-blow account of the scrap, admitting that Martin "was the quickest guy I've ever been in a fight with," which was also an admission that fighting wasn't new to this young sportswriter.

There's the San Francisco sports reporter who seems to thrive on antagonizing his news sources (the latest alienation of which may lead to a lawsuit for character assassination); a trick that gets him personal headlines but which also causes him to violate at least two canons of journalism: the attempt at objectivity and the real newsman's commandment that thou shalt not dry up news sources, no matter how obnoxious a reporter may consider them to be.

When a writer becomes so obnoxious that people on his beat no longer speak to him, then he is doing a disservice to his newspaper, his editor and to his readers, to whom he has his ultimate responsibility. Fans want to read news about their teams, not about a reporter's soap-opera feuds.

Then we have KRON-TV's Barry Tompkins, who doesn't fit snugly into any of the above categories, because he's created one all for himself — local smart aleck.

When Tompkins originally broke into San Francisco television he had mere technical problems like breath control, getting scores right and not knowing what he was talking about much of the time.

Then, in a quintessential example of the Peter Principle, he made radio network sports for several years and returned a man of the world, his breath under control, paying more attention to scores, and, through big-time polishing and with the good sense to avoid talking of things about which he knows nothing, at least gives him the appearance of basic competency.

Tompkins' problem now is one of ego. Somewhere along the way somebody convinced him, or he convinced himself, that he's a comedian. I think what happened was that one night he accidentally said something funny and the anchor man and the weather lady and a couple of cameramen giggled, and that encouraged Barry and he started going for the laughs.

Now he's to the point where he hardly reads an item when he doesn't go for the laugh, always glancing, with that cute, crooked little grin of his, to the anchor man for approval. And the anchor man invariably chuckles, maybe because he really thinks Tompkins is clever, or maybe because he wants the audience to believe that they're all pals at the station, which is good for the image.

Well, Barry may be cute, but he's about as clever as a buffalo, as funny as a wooden leg.

Not being prone to publicize such clowns, I wouldn't be mentioning any of this in print except that Tompkins pulled a caper the other night that I thought unconscionable for an alleged "reporter," and while bad doesn't deserve public attention, wrong does.

The 49ers had just released two of their wide receivers and that day had a tryout for five young wide receivers as potential replacements. Tompkins showed film of these kids going through their paces, and in a real professional voice-over made nothing but supposedly cute, clever, funny comments about their ability.

When the film was over, Barry flashed his cute, crooked little grin at the anchor man and the weather person and they both dutifully laughed, and at that moment five young athletes discovered they had busted their britches that day for the reward of perhaps getting rejected once again — an eventuality for which they were prepared — and providing Tompkins with a few cheap, hollow laughs, an eventuality which they did not deserve.

There is certainly a place for humor in sports; in fact, I don't think there is enough of it, because sports, after all, are entertainment and should be fun and never taken too seriously.

But there is a difference between genuine, good-natured humor and snickering, juvenile ridicule.

I must admit, though, that if either of the two young wide receivers who were signed that day pop Tompkins in the mouth the next time he brings cameras into camp, I'm going to snicker like hell, because that will be genuinely funny.

College prospects among the senior class in Northern California look pretty slim, according to pro football scouts who recently proffered their top 1979 draft picks for the Sporting News.

Only six north staters were mentioned and, surprisingly, four of them were from Cal.

The three top ranking Northern Californians were the Bears' guard Duke Leffler, ranked fourth among the nation's top guard prospects, defensive end Ralph DeLoach, also a fourth-best selection, and punter Dan Melville, who ranked third among the nation's top senior punters.

HIGHLIGHTS

For what seems the 175th year, the Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl representative will be decided in Columbus as Ohio State hosts Michigan. Actually, Michigan State, by beating Iowa Saturday, will co-champion the conference with the winner. However, the Spartans are on NCAA probation and ineligible for the Rose Bowl. The Wolverines won the annual game last year, 14-6, and were then up-ended by Washington in the Rose Bowl, 27-20. It's been ten years since any team other than Michigan or the Buckeyes has represented the conference in Pasadena on New Year's Day. Purdue had a good shot at it this year, but Michigan wiped out that possibility last Saturday, 24-6. The Wolves were beaten only by Michigan State this fall while Ohio State lost to Purdue and Penn State, and was tied by Southern Methodist. Enough history. Michigan will win it again this year by 12 points.

If Alabama beats Auburn on Saturday, December 2nd, the Tide will win the Southeast Conference title. And, typical of all top college powers this year — with the exception of Penn State — Alabama has one blot on its season record, an early loss to Southern California. The Auburn Tigers tied Georgia last week, 22-22, so they are in rather a strong position to give the Crimson Tide trouble. Alabama is favored by 18 points.

The Harmon crystal ball had another shiny week two weeks ago moving the average up a few more notches. Including all games through November 11th, the forecasting average has climbed to .748 based on 1,514 smiles and 511 frowns.

Southern California has already been crowned champion of the Pac-10 Conference and will host the Ohio State-Michigan winner in the Rose Bowl. However, the Trojans have another hosting task first. Saturday night, they entertain the Irish of Notre Dame in the 50th renewal of this intercollegiate rivalry. It should be a typical Southern Cal-Notre Dame "pull-out-all-the-stops" show with the Trojans winning by three points.

Finally, top-ranked Penn State is the home team in its final regular season game against cross-state rival Pittsburgh. Last year, the Lions barely edged the Panthers, 15-13, to close out a fine 10 and 1 year. On Friday night, by beating Pitt (the spread favoring the Lions is 14 points), Penn State will close out an even finer 11 and 0 season.

A WINNER EVERY WEEK!
CONTEST RULES

1. Select the winner of each game by placing an "X" in the box on the margin side of the team you think will win. If you predict that the game will end in a tie, place an "X" in the column headed "Tie." Between the two teams, if the game ends in a tie, credit will be given only to contestants who predict the tie.
2. Write the total net yards rushing and passing that you think the designated team will make in the box provided. This estimate will be used only in case of ties between two or more contestants.
3. Clip and mail the entry blank to:
FOOTBALL CONTEST
San Mateo Times
P.O. Box 5400
San Mateo, Calif. 94402
4. Entries must be postmarked prior to midnight Thursday of this week or delivered to The Times prior to 5:30 p.m., Thursday of this week. The Times is not responsible for entries lost, delayed or destroyed or which fail to reach The Times by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday.
5. A $25 cash prize will be awarded to the best entry submitted each week. An additional $25 will be awarded if the best entry is submitted by a Times subscriber or the entrant indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted. In the event a winner cannot be determined by use of a tie-breaker, the prize money will be divided equally among the eligible contestants who tied for the week's best entry. Check the appropriate box at the bottom of the entry form to become eligible for the additional $25.
6. A $100 cash prize bonus will be awarded to a Times subscriber, or entrant, who indicates immediate home delivery of The Times is wanted.
7. Cash prizes will be payable only to the contestant identified on the entry blank. Winning contestants will be required to show identification.
8. Number of entries from one household is limited to three (3) including only one (1) facsimile of the official entry blank permitted per household. Submission of more than three entries or one facsimile will render all facsimiles submitted by that contestant void.
9. Entries may be attached to a postcard, mailed in an envelope or delivered by hand to the San Mateo, Redwood City or South San Francisco office of Amplifier Printing Company's publications — The Times, The Post, San Bruno Herald, Recorder-Progress, The Coastside Chronicle and the Daily City Herald.
10. Anyone may enter the contest except employee of The Times and their immediate families.
11. The decision of the judges is final. All contestants agree to abide by the judges' decisions. All entries become the property of The Times, no answers may be returned. The Times reserves the right to correct any typographical errors in the entry blank which affect the outcome of the contest. Answers to the contest or winners' name will NOT be given out over the phone. Winners will be notified by The Times.

Congressman Leo J. Ryan: More Than Two Decades of Public Service

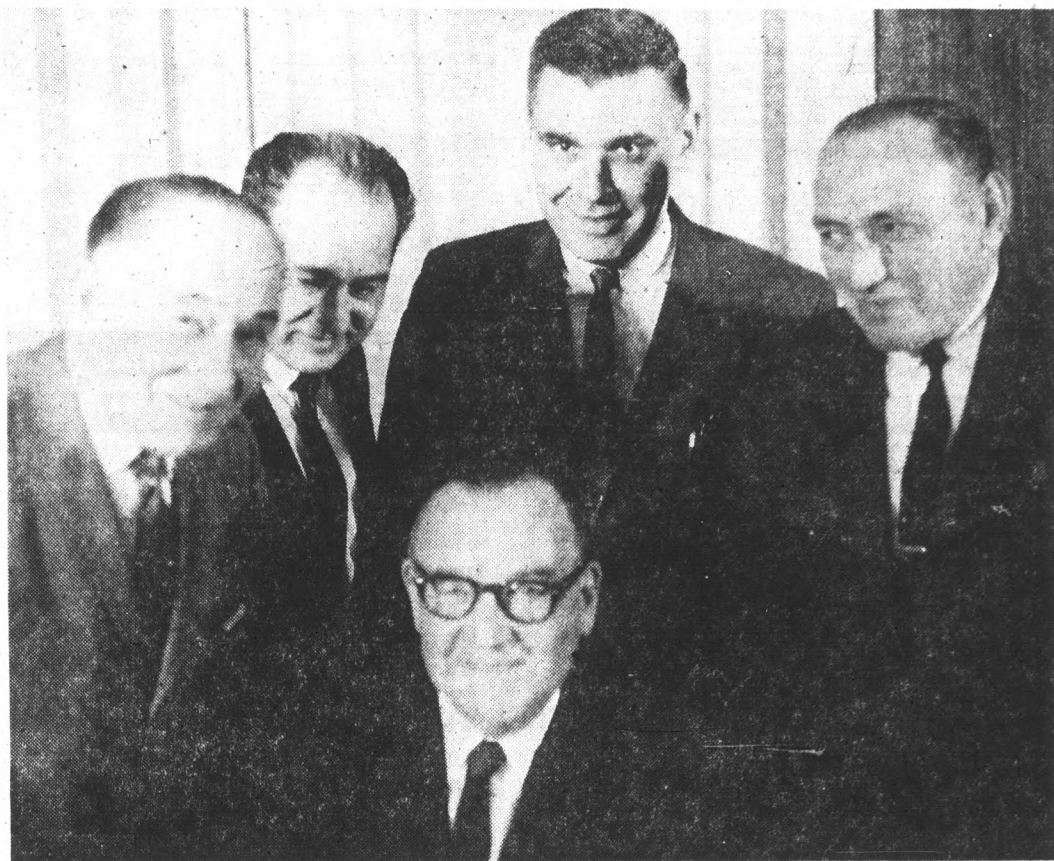

1973 — Leo Ryan was sworn in for his first term of office in Washington as a

United States Congressman by House Speaker Carl Albert as Congressman

Tip O'Neill, Albert's successor, looked on.

1963 — Newly elected Assemblyman Ryan did a bit of politicking with former San Mateo City Councilman Roy Archibald, left, and Assembly Soeaker Jesse Unruh.

1965 — For former South San Francisco Mayor Leo Ryan it was a day of reunion with his former colleagues as he posed with Gov.

1969 — One of Leo Ryan's great political attributes was the ability to campaign long and hard — and he was game for almost anything. Here he joined in an unusual ribbon-

and Mrs. Gordon Cherry, at the opening of a "haunted house."

1975 — When the Russian fishing fleet came too close to the California coast, Congressman Ryan called for an investigation and boarded a Coast Guard plane to observe the situation for himself.

Airline: The Jet Set Game

By RICHARD C. MOON

Do you still harbor dreams of building a financial empire, beginning with a small fortune and multiplying it by a combination of your own wit, intelligence and good fortune? Do your fantasies include controlling vast sums of money and wheeling and dealing with other moguls to maintain your place at the top of the business world? If so, "Airline," by MPH Company, may prove to be just the game for you. MPH bills this as the jet age game and it lives up to its image. It is a game for two, three or four players aged 10 to adult. One of the main strengths of Airline is the high player involvement the game provides.

Each player starts out with the formidable sum of $100 million and a prop aircraft. From this point on it is up to each individual to make the decisions and handle the constantly changing situations that will allow him or her to build the world's biggest international airline.

Players begin making strategic choices from the outset of Airline. The competitor with the highest initial roll of the dice choose a base city from which to begin operations. Players have the choice of 16 cities ranging from Anchorage, Alaska to Sydney, Australia and including such exotic spots as Rome and Rio de Janeiro.

In the beginning, players try to acquire landing spots for their aircraft. When you land on a city to which no other player has the landing rights, you may purchase these rights for the sum of $20 million. As your empire grows you may find that prop planes no longer are adequate and decide to purchase more expensive, efficient aircraft. You may buy a jet for $30 million and work toward purchasing an SST for an additional $30 million.

The benefit of owning the more expensive planes comes when opposing players land in cities where you control the landing rights. If you own a prop, your opponent will have to pay you $9 million; if you own a jet your opponent will pay $18 million and $27 million if you happen to own an SST.

The colorful board forces players to deal with such adversity as bad weather, hijacks, heavy maintenance work and strikes from disgruntled employees. Just as in the real business world, you can be ruined by unfortunate circumstance.

But with a little luck you will be able to meet every challenge Airline provides and wind up with a personal fortune by collecting fares, charter fees, air cargo revenue and government subsidies.

To remain in the game you must pay any debt to the bank or another player as soon as it's due and you must continue to fly your aircraft and operate your own base city. If you no longer can operate your business, you are bankrupt and out of the game. Naturally, the last player remaining in the game is the winner.

Airline is simple to play and to understand. It also is quite engrossing. Tycoons and would-be tycoons should find this game challenging and exciting.

Happy Thanksgiving! May tomorrow be a day filled with the joy of living and graced by the bounty of our country.

Thanksgiving always marks to start off the holiday season and with it comes the announcement of parties to celebrate the religious holidays and to renew ties with friends and relatives.

One of the first Christmas parties scheduled locally will be the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's Christmas cocktail party.

Mrs. Jane Hillman and Mrs. Millie Dunow are arranging the party which will be Dec. 2 in the Franciscan Mobile Home Park Country Club.

The party is open to members and their friends. Reservations, costing $5 per person are available from Mrs. Dunow or Mrs. Hillman.

Members of the Nursing Society of the University of San Francisco will celebrate Christmas at a party to be held in the Pacifica home of one of the members on Dec. 5.

Alumnae from the school of nursing and past and present members of the faculty are invited to attend.

Anyone wishing more information is urged to call the alumni association office on the University of San Francisco campus, 752-6560, immediately.

A Christmas boutique and a cookie-candy sale will be held at the Our Lady of Mercy Parish hall on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 9-10, according to Mrs. James McKee, publicity chairperson.

For those who are pressed for time at Christmas, the boutique committee has a special treat, pre-wrapped gift items! Also offered for the shoppers' convenience will be many hand-made gift items, decorations for home and tree and, from the cookie-candy sale, generous supply of baked goods and tempting sweets.

The boutique and cookie-candy sale will be open for business following all masses on Saturday and Sunday.

Members of the Dolphins Swim Club have celebrated the birthdays of Ariel and John Bales-treri and Kai and Larry Calais during November.

Others receiving awards were Lisa Auerback, Julie Bajone, Moira Friday, Virginia Galan, Sarah Guillory, Hillard L'Al, Christine Salguero, Jeanette Sosa, Doris Sten, Ellen Stuh, Stephanie Ucelli, Verlean Guillory, Lorraine St. Clair, Janice Murphy, Catherine Caserza and Susan Keenan.

Members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild are still inviting localites to do their shopping for Christmas cards in the hospital gift shop. The proceeds from the sale of cards is issued to help pay the guild's pledge to the hospital's building and equipment fund.

Boxes of food and clothing and lots of holiday treats are being readied for the annual Christmas party for Veterans of World War I which is being sponsored by the members of the Pacifica Fifty Plus Club.

This is the 18th year the Pacifica senior citizens group has arranged a party for the veterans now living in the Menlo Park Veterans Hospital.

Samuel Chandler

Sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving;
Sing praise upon the harp of our God
Who covereth the heaven with clouds,
Who prepareth rain for the earth,
Who maketh grass to grow upon the mountains,
And herb for the use of men.

Psalms CXLVII

Behind the turkey and pumpkin pie a universal trait in human character can be found in the Thanksgiving day celebration.

George William Douglas phrases it in these words: "The practice of setting apart a day for thanks did not originate in New England, although Governor Bradford of the Plymouth colony issued the first Thanksgiving proclamation. It is probably as old as the worshipping spirit. Its origin goes back to the time when men first began to understand their dependence on a higher power."

A power that Sarah Hale described as praises and loving capable of moving every American to "join in heart . . . in the purest feelings of patriotism and the deepest emotions of thankfulness for his . . . enjoyments."

With such thoughts in mind Mrs. Hale asked President Lincoln to proclaim a day for "putting aside the sectional feelings and local incidents that might be urged on any single state or isolated territory" and proclaim a day "to become national in unity when we offer to God our tribute of joy and gratitude for the blessings of the year."

Upon reading Mrs. Hale's letter, President Lincoln recognized the need of every American to join in a day of "purest feelings" and issued a proclamation that contained these words: "It seems to me fit and proper that they (the blessing of the land) should be solemnly, reverently and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people."

But President Lincoln wrote that Thanksgiving should be more than a day of gratitude. He wrote that it should be a day of "humble penitence for our National perverseness and disobedience," and a day to "commend to His tender care all those who have become widows, orphans, mourners or sufferers."

He also asked that Thanksgiving Day be a day to rededicate Americans to "the full enjoyment of peace, harmony, tranquility and union."

Since 1863, the year of Lincoln's proclamation, Thanksgiving has been a National holiday. Although some Americans have forgotten, it remains a day for renewing a worshipping spirit, a patriotic day for sensing the deepest emotions of American liberty.

As John Greenleaf Whittier wrote, let us use Thanksgiving 1978 to Thank Heaven, instead, that Freedom's arm

Can change a rocky soil to gold—
That brave and generous lives can warm
A clime with northern ices cold.
And let these altars, wreathed with flowers
And piled with fruits, awake again
Thanksgivings for the golden hours,
The early and the latter rain!

Cyclists Tour

By GENNY HOM
During the summer, the Sprockets, Serramonte's cycling club, traveled to Great Britain and toured through Scotland.

The advisor, Mr. Maxwell and five students in the club, Steve Daly, Paul Dohrmann, Brian Clarke, Kyle Brutchy and Ken Hodel first flew on a 11-hour plane flight to London.

The group then rode through London and boarded a train for Northern England.

From England, the group rode into Scotland, riding an average of 50 miles per day.

The students who went on this trip had a great experience they shall never forget. Officers of the Sprockets are President, Tom Swope; Vice President, Brian Clarke; Treasurer, Keith Lindstrom; Secretary John Bohren and Weather, Ken Hodel. Other members of the Sprockets are Joe Keegan, Clifford Ng, Kent Fung and Danny Lewbin.

Serramonte has a new bilingual resource center. The bilingual personnel have tried to create a warm, friendly, atmosphere where students can come to study, catch up on home work, read, or just to relax and talk. The resource center has books in English, Spanish and some books in both languages.

Mrs. Issacs, Mrs. Godoy, and Mrs. Garay are available to help students. They are happy to act as interpreters or just sit to have a talk. They would also like to publicly thank our principal, Mr. Dubois for his effort in making the bilingual resource center possible.

In Exercise

Second Lt. Alan R. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Lee, 571 Verducci Drive, Daly City, recently participated in Gallant Eagle 79, a joint readiness exercise at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

More than 25,000 troops from all four services and the Army and Air Force Reserves and National Guard participated in the month-long exercise.

Lee is regularly assigned as a platoon leader with the 326th Engineer Battalion at Fort Campbell, Ky.

He was commissioned through the ROTC program at San Jose State University, where he received a bachelor's degree in 1977.

SPIRIT SQUAD

Two members of Terra Nova High's spirit squad got into the swing of things during halftime of the TN-Jefferson football game Friday by participating in the team's stretching exercises. Terra Nova was leading the Indians 9-6 at the time, thanks to this 44-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Joe Belli to Don Parrez. The Jeff defender is Sam Smith (48).

Jeff's Dream Ruined, 16-12

Terra Nova High's football team may have hit its stride too late. But it was just in time to keep Jefferson from winning the first varsity grid title in its 54 years of existence.

Going into the final day of North Peninsula League play Friday, four teams could have taken home at least a piece of the title. But only Jeff controlled its own destiny. A Jefferson win meant a Jefferson championship.

But Terra Nova's defense and Jefferson's mistakes put an end to the dream as the host Tigers hung on for a 16-12 win.

Terra Nova and Jeff both finished 5-2 in the NPL, good for second place behind Serramonte. Jeff had led the lead going in. Jeff wound up 6-4 overall; TN was 6-2.

Terra Nova had lost valuable preparation time early in the season. The Tigers cancelled their first two non-league games because of a district teachers' strike.

The layoff hurt. The Tigers didn't really put forth their best effort until the last two weeks, when they held Westmoor and Jeff, the top offensive teams in the league, to two touchdowns total.

"We made too many mistakes early," said Tiger quarterback Joe Belli, who riddled Jeff's defense for 125 yards passing in the first half. "We had six fumbles in one game. There were a lot of mental mistakes."

"But winning this one makes the season. It doesn't even matter what happened in the Westmoor-Serramonte game (if Westmoor had won, Terra Nova would have had a co-championship and a CCS playoff berth)."

Belli's last two games were his best. He stopped overthrowing receivers and started giving people fits.

"I think that was the biggest single effect of the strike," said Tiger Coach Bob Lotti. "Joe Belli didn't get enough experience early in the year throwing the ball. But he's just been improving and improving."

Belli's passing let Terra Nova control the ball reasonably well — an important factor given the explosive nature of Jefferson's offense.

"I didn't know before the game we were going to throw that much," said Belli. "But it was like playing keep-away. After we started throwing I went back to the sideline and said, 'Coach, let's keep throwing. There are two out of three guys open every time.'"

Terra Nova's plan was to avoid mistakes and control the ball. It worked. Jeff got nearly as many yards as the Tigers (223-248) and ran nearly as many plays (47-52), but when it came to sustaining drives at key moments, all the honors went to Terra Nova.

Jeff came in with the league's best offense and the league's top two rushers — Doug Cheatum and Richard Rodgers. Rodgers was also a threat with the half-back pass, which he has thrown for five TD's in NPL play.

Regain Bell Trophy Colts Edge Warriors

While this year's cross-town contest between El Camino and South San Francisco high schools might not have stirred up the widespread interest and publicity as in past years, it didn't lack any of the intensity traditional rivalries are known for.

After falling to a 7-0 first half deficit, EC was able to turn this annual thriller around and nip the Warriors 10-7 Friday night at Clifford Field.

Hundreds of Colt rooters then swarmed the field to help take home the Bell Trophy — for the first time in three years.

"We've been waiting for this game for a long time. Even though we are coming off a losing season, we still showed that we have a lot of pride left," said El Camino Coach Lonny Beckenhauer.

South City capitalized on a blocked EC punt midway through the second quarter. The Warriors recovered the rejected quick kick on the Colts' 22-yard line.

Fullback Jerry Pirillo and tailback Tim Wright alternated blasting up the middle until they reached the eight, where Pirillo found daylight in the right side and scampered the remaining yards for the score.

Early in the third quarter, behind the explosive running of Gary Ryan and Jeff Pettigrew, EC was able to penetrate into Warrior territory. Quarterback-linebacker-field goal kicker Roger Ruzek capped the drive by booting a 37-yard field goal that just cleared the uprights with inches to spare, making it 7-3.

From then on it was a defensive battle. Although both schools were able to cross the 50 with great frequency, neither did much until EC's Ron Doane returned a punt 75 yards for the winning score.

Mills, Dons Win

Mid Peninsula favorites, Mills and Aragon, defeated Hillsdale 15-6, 11-15, 15-10, and Crestmoor, 16-14, 15-10, respectively in the Mid-Peninsula League Volleyball playoffs Thursday.

Mills, the MPL round-robin champion, went on top, 8-2, in the first game, but Hillsdale rolled behind setter-backcourter Teresa Hasegawa as the junior ballhandler defended the defense with soft passing and ignited the offense with careful sets to Angie Cimarusti and Laura Nishioka.

Hasegawa also ran together a string of eight points over a suddenly chaotic Mills defense that all but locked up the second game.

With Kathy Wischer playing an effective and active setter position, Hillsdale took a slim 10-7 lead in the deciding game.

But that's when Mills finally uncorked its methodical offense that had been dormant since the first game.

Alma Saucedo, who played part of the season with an injured spiking hand, blasted a slam and was followed by shots from Lisa Erickson, Cindy Donovan and Linda Chase. Marianne Fernandes kept things perking with good net pickups, a tricky thing on Mills' soft net.

And when Hillsdale began to spike into the net, the Vikes ran off eight unanswered points to pull out the win.

Meanwhile, the Dons battled Crestmoor to a 16-14, 15-10 win for the right to advance to the second playoff round tonight against Mills.

Alesia Ogo's experience and knowledge of the game helped Aragon from a 14-8 deficit in the first contest. Ogo got the jump on the Crestmoor defense with well-placed spikes and she also helped the Dons repel three Falcon attempts at gamepoint with controlled passing and digs.

Elonda Slade put the finishing touches on the first game by slamming five straight points from the service stripe late in the contest.

Mills Harriers Win

By PAUL SALVONI

Mills High's cross-country team, paced once again by Dave Marson and John Wrdzek, represented the Mid-Peninsula League in very strong fashion Thursday as the Vikings beat out 12 opposing teams to capture the Region I championship on Belmont's 2.9-mile Crystal Springs course.

Mills and St. Francis, the West Catholic Athletic League champion, ran away from the rest of the pack. The Vikings finally prevailed — barely — as they tallied 34 points to the Lancers' 37.

Marson, a junior, placed first with a time of 15:15. Wrdzek came in second with a clocking of 15:31. Mills placed two other finishers in the top ten; sophomore Bruce Jobe placed eighth (15:59) and Glenn Giovanetti finished ninth (16:00).

The top four teams from each region qualify for the Northern California

Regional Championship Meet, which will be held on Saturday, Nov. 25, at 3:15 at Crystal Springs. Therefore, Mills, St. Francis, San Mateo (132 points) and Serra (135) will represent Region I.

The top four individuals whose teams failed to finish fourth or higher also earn the right to compete in the NorCal Regional Championship Meet, so Burlingame's Ted Fehlbauer, Terra Nova's Alan Peterson, Aragon's Marty Perez and Capuchino's Jon Reyes will also be running next Saturday.

In the girls division, San Mateo's Kim Schnurpfel placed first with an impressive time of 18:02 (only 0:02 slower than the girls' course record she set in the MPL finals last week). But Half Moon Bay's runners notched the 3-4-5-6 spots to give the Cougars a decisive victory on the team level.

Cap's Ann Hamilton hadn't finished within 0:59 of Schnurpfel in their two prior meetings, but turned in a clocking of 18:13 (0:46 better than her time in the MPL finals) as she finished only 0:11 behind Schnurpfel.

Varsity Mills 34, St. Francis 37, San Mateo 132, Serra 135, Terra Nova 144, Burlingame 167, St. Ignace 172, Aragon 178, Westmoor 229, Capuchino 257, Oceana 261, Rioridan 279, South San Francisco 281 — 1.

Regents First Football Title

By JOHN MURPHY

It was late in the fourth quarter when Serramonte High's football team, leading 24-20 over visiting Westmoor, finally heard something from Pacifica.

Word had it that Jefferson had lost its all-important North Peninsula League game with host Terra Nova.

Serramonte, which needed a Jeff loss to win the championship, went bananas.

Regent Coach Ken Cook practically needed straitjackets to quell the emotion on Serramonte's sidelines. The Regents had not won anything YET. They still had to punt from midfield and hold the Rams for four downs before the title was theirs.

Several incomplete passes later the Regents were able to walk off the chilly-Daly City field with a victory. But was the good news about Jeff-Terra Nova accurate or just a rumor?

Serramonte found out for sure about half an hour later. Terra Nova had beaten Jefferson 16-12, ruining the Tribe's title hopes. Suddenly the Regents, 5-1-1 in NPL play, were the improbable champions of a crazy, mixed-up season.

Bedlam reigned supreme in the Serramonte locker room. Champagne, shower-dunkings — the works. The Regents whooped it up quite a bit, and one could hardly blame them.

After all, Serramonte figured to be an also-ran this year in the NPL race. The Regents stumbled to an 0-3 record in non-league play and didn't seem to be much of a threat to win the title. Then they lost players left and right.

But that's all in the past for Cook's aggressive, spirited charges. The Regents, as their nickname so aptly suggests, are the kings in NPL football. It was the first football championship in the school's history.

"I think that when people look at teams and start rating them that they look at size but they disregard speed," said a still-dripping Cook, fresh from a post-game shower. "Hell, we're never gonna be big. We dedicate our entire offense and defense on being fast and hitting people."

"We bend but we don't break," continued Cook, praising his league-leading defense. "And our kids are going to get you sooner or later. Our kids will hit you. We pride ourselves on hitting people and we pride ourselves on speed."

The Regents displayed plenty of punishing hitting and loads of team speed against a talented Westmoor unit.

Quick wide receiver Kevin Smith scored Serramonte's first touchdown on a 31-yard pass from quarterback Ron Cranshaw, and glue-fingered Joe Nobles had scoring receptions of 44 and 14 yards.

The Regents jumped out to a 17-7 first half lead (following Chico Arcaya's 39-yard field goal with 2:59 left in the second period) and seemed to be in control.

But versatile Westmoor QB Tony Limutau stunned Serramonte just before intermission with a 41-yard TD toss to tight end Stuart Ramirez.

The Rams kept the momentum going by recovering an onside kick to open the second half. Five plays later Limutau found tight and Steve Botta with a 32-yard scoring toss to put Westmoor ahead 20-17.

The lead was shortlived, however. Cranshaw quickly engineered a nine-play, 55-yard drive which was culminated by Nobles' second TD reception of the game, from 14 yards out.

Serramonte's defense took charge thereafter. Fierce hitting by people like Doug Stewart, Mike Kuchac and Anthony Hale kept Westmoor well from scoring range.

Cranshaw, a senior signal-caller playing his first year as a starting quarterback on varsity, only completed five passes in 13 attempts. But those five arials were good for 120 yards and three TD's.

"I can't explain it," said Cranshaw. "My receivers come up with the ball every time. I just don't know how. They made me look great."

And the humble Cranshaw also had words of praise for his offensive line, which protected him as if he were the Hope Diamond. "Coach Peters (assistant Jim) did a wonderful job with the line. They were cutting and double-teaming, and there were no holding penalties at all. They just hung in there. That's the number one line in the league," Cranshaw added.

The prime movers up front for the Regents included Pio Tuimavave, Dennis Anchondo, Gilbert Tavita, John Drewke and Moni Tialavea. Line coach Peters was understandably ecstatic over their play.

"We worked on good cup-blocking this week, and the kids knew what to do," revealed Peters. "They work well for Cranshaw. They like him and they'll work for him."

Receivers Nobles and Smith also worked quite well with the Regent QB.

"Joe Nobles catches the ball," said Cook. "If the ball is catchable, he's gonna catch it. I still say that we have the finest receivers in the County. I don't think anybody can touch us."

Limutau, a slippery runner, was held to only 39 yards on the ground, but threw for 160 yards. Stewart and Hale combined for 112 yards to lead Serramonte's ground attack. The Regents had a slight edge in total offense, 262 to 251.

Mighty Mite Sparks Win

By MIKE FICHER

At 5-foot-4 and 130 lbs., Tony Kerlagen's physical presence is not imposing. But the same cannot be said for his ability to make things happen on a football field.

Scoring three touchdowns in as many different ways, the Oceana High player-of-all-positions led the Sharks to a 25-12 victory over visiting Half Moon Bay Friday in the season finale for both clubs.

Kerlagen intercepted a pass and returned it 46 yards for one touchdown, rushed 10 yards for another, and caught a 17-yard pass from quarterback John Brown for a third score.

In addition to his fine offensive effort, the junior back batted down two passes, intercepted two, and made a superb play to prevent a Half Moon Bay two-point conversion attempt on the defensive side.

Despite holding a substantial advantage in the final statistics, Half Moon Bay suffered four interceptions.

The Cougars scored in the third quarter as running back Dave Gibbs, who rushed for 102 yards in the game, took a handoff, faded back and hit wide-open Joe Ervin with a 56-yard TD pass.

A Gibbs interception and subsequent 22 yard running play set up Matt Walters' one-yard plunge for the Cougars' second touchdown. However, HMB's attempt to gain the lead was thwarted by Kerlagen, who fought off a block and nailed a scrambling Cougar quarterback just short of the goal line.

Oceana rebounded with Kerlagen's touchdown catch and linebacker Bill Svozil's 33 yard interception return to shut down the Cougars' comeback hopes.

Americans — the World's Foremost Dieters

By ARVILLE FINACOM

It amuses some regular readers of this paper to find Nell Norton's recipe column on the same page with Elise Gendar's "Diet Corner," especially if the former's recipes are calorie-rich and enticingly easy. But, with further thought, it does seem both logical and somehow appropriate.

As a people, we in the United States are the most overfed, diet-conscious in the world. True, in average daily caloric intake, the U.S. ranks runner-up third behind Belgium and Ireland; but lifestyles on the Emerald Isle and in the fields and factories of lowland Belgium differ greatly from those in the U.S., where competitive and solo sports, jogging, even disco dancing, along with dieting, are common weight control measures made necessary by the eating of more than most of us need for our basically stand-up-sit-down occupational lives.

I wonder what the Pilgrim colonists who celebrated bare survival in 1621 would think if they could see their descendants on the eve of the traditional wholly American holiday, Thanksgiving, 1978, preparing for the satiation, surfeit and super-sufficiency of yet another holiday season.

First, they might be surprised to see Tom or Sadie Turkey, legs thrust ceilingward, trussed and trimmed on a festive platter. Although there was meat at the first Thanksgiving — venison, duck, goose, seafood, including eel — there is no record of turkey being served.

Interestingly, even though the colonists brought seed and startings with them, the bulk of the harvest that first year and what loaded down the trestle tables was the fruit of native crops as cultivated and harvested in the Indian way, along with the local fish, fowl and flesh. The Pilgrims and their Indian friends feasted on white and corn bread, leeks, watercress, probably squash and maybe wild rice with wild plums and dried berries for dessert. Crushed and pressed grapes provided a strong, sweet wine.

One of the earliest lessons the colonists learned was to utilize the strange and unfamiliar and it was to their credit that they were willing to learn from Squanto, an English-speaking Indian of the area who had been captured along with 26 other local Indians some six years before by a raiding English sea captain who sold him into slavery in Spain. Escaping from servitude, Squanto reached England, lived for a time with a Christian gentleman who taught him all white men were not so evil as his kidnapers, and eventually returned to his North American home only a few months before the Plymouth colonists landed.

But then, in many cultures, including the fervent Pilgrim version of Christianity, Squanto's appearance was an "act of benevolent Providence." The sight of the red man striding from the forest, greeting them in stilted, somewhat hesitant, but nonetheless colloquial 16th century English, was indeed fortuitous. Without Squanto's advice the Plymouth settlement might have suffered the same fate as the Roanoke colony in Virginia, where supplies ran out before the return of English supply ships.

Perspective

What Squanto taught was the Indian wisdom of an acceptance of nature and a study of her many secrets. Today, agronomists could tell the Pilgrims that the fish Squanto taught them to bury in each hillock of corn resupplied the soil with vital phosphorus. It was enough for them to know the corn prospered and eventually, so did they.

Early California settlers likewise learned from the Indians, who utilized nature's natural abundance as completely as their hand/eye/small tool technology permitted. Recipes for acorn, arrowhead and cattail flour breads and pancakes were common and Miner's Lettuce, a widespread spring damp ground annual, gets its common name from its use by the gold seekers.

Early Bay Area English-speaking housewives preserved glasswort — the common pickleweed found in salt marshes along the Bay. There's a good expanse of the herb at the foot of Millbrae Avenue. They also collected the dry leaves of the ubiquitous Umbellularia Californica — California Bay — to flavor stews and other meat dishes as tastefully as its Middle Eastern relative commonly sold commercially.

Later Italian immigrants gathered wild greens such as mustard and dandelions which escaped or were sown by even earlier European settlers. The many Oriental people who settled along the coast collected seaweed as food.

Some of the more exotic plants introduced by settlers thrived in California's coastal zone. Hot-tent or Sea Fig, from South Africa, which now threatens to displace native sand verbena along coastal beaches, is one. Another import, New Zealand spinach, grows in great enough quantity to be free-for-the-taking on many ocean front sandy slopes. Do not pick, however, on state or county park land.

I could list several nutritious and satisfying recipes for breads, soups and salads as well as jams and relishes made from local gather-your-own ingredients, but instead I'll give you the name of a softcover book well worth its $5.95 list price. "Edible and Useful Plants of California," by Charlotte Bungle Clarke, is one of the California Natural History Guides published by the University of California Press. In addition to recipes for food, Clarke includes as well medicinal and household uses for some 127 plants with a detailed description of root, leaf and stem size and structure.

Those who want to taste some of our local native delicacies before trying the recipes in Clarke's book may be interested in the "Foods" walk, Nov. 25 from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Coyote Hills Regional Park. Billed as a "weight watcher's special," an East Bay Regional Park District naturalist will escort as many people as come on a "gourmet walk through the hills to identify (and sample) the edible fare nature offers." Meet at the park visitor center, Patterson Ranch Road just off Newark Boulevard. From any place in San Mateo County take Highway 92 across the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge, turn right on Hesperian Boulevard, then follow your eyes south a few miles until you see the low hills rising to your right.

Whether you start to explore native foods in a spirit of adventure, as a hedge against inflation or from a deeply religious conviction that simplicity and naturalness are what life should be about, enjoy yourself. A thought-provoking Happy Thanksgiving to you all.

Bruno May Close Another School

With the number of students continuing to dwindle, San Bruno Park School District trustees next month will consider closing an elementary school.

At the insistence of Trustee Eugene May, the board agreed to put on the December agenda a public hearing on a possible school closure. And May said Carl Sandburg School is the one trustees should look at.

Last year trustees closed Willard R. Engvall Intermediate School because of declining districtwide enrollment. Their goal at that time was to attempt to retain the neighborhood school concept by keeping open all seven elementary schools, plus Parkside Intermediate School.

May suggested, during a Board of Trustees meeting Wednesday night, that students from Sandburg and Rollingwood School be combined at the Rollingwood campus.

Sandburg, a kindergarten through sixth-grade school (as are all the elementary schools in the San Bruno district), has the lowest attendance of any local school, with an actual enrollment, as of Nov. 3, of 169 students. Rollingwood's attendance this year is 302.

By combining the two schools, May said the district could save $115,000 annually.

The district may be forced to close another school, May said, "just to make ends meet. We have to avoid low class sizes. This district is no longer in a position to afford having 18 or 19 students in a class."

May said he is interested in receiving public opinion at the December meeting, and hopes the board will make a decision in January.

Although most trustees agreed a possible school closure should be discussed, they were not as specific as May in actually pinpointing a school.

"The idea now is not to point a school out, but to decide how we're going to go," said Trustee Jose Flores. "It seems that we always point to Sandburg when we talk about declining enrollment and money."

And, added Trustee Harry Redlick, "I'd like to look at all the different combinations that are possible."

Redlick suggested that administrative costs at the elementary schools are excessive, and that perhaps the district should reduce its number of principals.

Only Trustee Dan Pecoraro objected to future discussions on school closures.

"Last year when we closed Engvall we made a commitment to the neighborhood school concept. I don't want to renege on that," he said.

Pecoraro added that he doesn't believe the money saved from closing a school is "really that much," and that money in itself does not justify a closure. He also said the district hasn't discovered what financial impact the future sale of North Brae School will have.

It's unfortunate, Pecoraro said, that Sandburg School was discussed specifically as a possible closure.

"There have been rumors throughout the community that Sandburg would be closed in September. Talk like that is unfair, and the community will be upset."

Discussion of a possible school closure came up during a briefing on district enrollment this year, which is at 2,689 pupils. Projections were for an enrollment of 2,567, and Administrative Assistant Robert Barron said he has no doubts that next year's enrollment projection will be lower than originally anticipated.

Sabbath services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Dec. 1, at 8:30 p.m.

The service will be conducted by Rabbi Malcolm I. Cohen, spiritual leader of the Synagogue, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy.

One of the highlights of the evening will be Rabbi Cohen's sermon, which will reflect a timely subject.

Also participating will be members of the Congregation by offering responsive readings and prayers.

At the conclusion, an Oneg Shabbat (Social Hour) will follow hosted by Len Mayer, president of the congregation, assisted by Sisterhood members.

Saturday Morning Services

Congregation B'nai Israel announces that on Saturday (Shabbat) morning, Dec. 2, services will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Services will be led by Rabbi Malcolm I. Cohen, spiritual leader of the Synagogue. The Sanctuary is located at 1575 Annie St., Daly City. To be read on the Shabbat morning of Dec. 2, will be: Parsha: "Toledat."

Rabbi Cohen will speak on "Rosh Chodesh." Judaism is based on a lunar calendar. Each month begins with the appearance of a new moon. The first of each new month is an occasion for special prayers and celebration. It is called Rosh Chodesh (the head of the month) and is observed for one or two days. When there are two days of Rosh Chodesh, the first day is the last day of the preceding month. Rosh Chodesh is announced in the Synagogue on the preceding Sabbath with a special prayer for the new month.

Pacifica Eyes Another Cable Firm

The Pacifica City Council has asked the city staff to look into having another cable TV company come into Pacifica.

The action was taken after Mayor Nick Gust noted that he was "very disappointed" at how the talks between the city and TeleCommunications, Inc., had been going.

The two sides still disagreed, he said, over the quality of service residents were being given.

For several months the city has been holding public hearings to determine if the TCI franchise should be discontinued.

TCI is being sued by the city for allegedly not providing satisfactory service to its customers and for not giving written notice of its intention to increase rates.

In a cross suit, the cable TV company is alleging that the city has breached its contract and is asking for more than $2.5 million in damages.

Mayor Gust said TCI has a franchise contract with the city until 1985 but that franchise is not an exclusive one.

He asked that the staff look into seeing if there is interest by another cable TV company in coming into Pacifica.

"The new system couldn't be put in overnight," he said.

In other action the council:

- Approved continuing to light the Terra Nova High School tennis courts. The lights were to be turned off because of budget cuts.

- When the council approved leaving the lights on in the evening, many audience members applauded the decision.

- Continued until another meeting a decision on what to do about Fairmont residents' concern about night games at the Fairmont West ballfield.

- The neighbors have asked that the night games be discontinued and the lights turned off, because they are disruptive to the neighborhood.

- Passed an ordinance which

- calls for a $25 charge to be made for false alarms that are caused by an equipment malfunction in the alarm or by negligent conduct.

- Approved conversion of the street lights from mercury vapor lights to high-pressure sodium vapor lights.

- The city will save up to $6,000 by this conversion.

- Adopted a resolution extending the cooperation agreement with San Mateo County for the Housing and Community Development Act Funds program.

- The council also held the first of three public hearings on how the federal housing funds should be used in the next three years.

Thanksgiving Dining

BRIGHT LIGHTS
BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Festive Dining

This is the time for feasting with family and friends and for offering special thanks for our many blessings. Countless Bay Area residents and visitors alike will be seeking out their favorite restaurants, hotels, and clubs for celebrating the tradition of Thanksgiving. A selection of outstanding places offering holiday menus and lively entertainment are listed in today's "Bright Lights" pages, with early reservations almost a must.

A delightful way to savor the delicacies of the Thanksgiving holiday brings is to have Thanksgiving Buffet Brunch at the SAN FRANCISCO AIRPORT HILTON's Barronshire Room, serving 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The buffet, which will again be served from 4:30 to 10 p.m., will feature a hearty choice of meats, salads, fruits, breads, vegetables, and desserts and, of course, all the traditional trimmings.

Thanksgiving is a big day at NICK'S and THE MOONRAKER restaurants in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. It's the day for all their regular patrons and many who come especially for holiday feasting with their friends and family to enjoy the far-famed cuisine and hospitality offered at these excellent family-operated restaurants. Special menus for dinner at both, plus a special holiday breakfast at Nick's. Reservations are rolling in, but there's still time to get yours in. NICK GUST, his lovely wife LORRAINE and son CHUCK cordially invite you to let them help make your Thanksgiving Day memorable. CAPTAIN CHARLES restaurant will not be open Thanksgiving Day. Tequila Fresca, a unique cocktail served at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in Burlingame, is light enough to make you carefree, strong enough to lubricate the conversation. SERRA-MONTE JOE'S, a new Daly City restaurant featuring provincial Italian dinners, also has banquet facilities for group entertaining (25 to 50 persons). GONG'S in South San Francisco will not be open Thanksgiving Day and the following Friday. Owner JOHN CHIANG reminds his patrons that catering and orders to take out will keep his Chinese restaurant staff bustling before and after their two-day holiday.

If you're looking for a place to take your out-of-town visitors this holiday season, make it FINOCCHIO'S, a world-famed night spot which has been enticing and enthralling visitors to San Francisco for over 40 years. The fabulous EVE-ETTES, the glamorous chorus line of singers-dancers, put together by talented EVE FINOCCHIO, perform in many colorful numbers each evening. All the entertainers are determined to make your evening a memorable one. Four shows nightly, except Monday. Thanksgiving dinner at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, on San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," is one of the Bay Area's newest dining traditions. This year, BILL MONROE will feature a special holiday menu of Roasted Tom Turkey, Prime Ribs, Poached King Salmon and Scallops of Veal Saute from 1 to 10 p.m. Thanksgiving Day. $10.95 includes soup, salad, beverage and dessert. Special child's dinners also. Of course, it won't be easy, but if you can get by without ROMANO'S super spaghetti and other famous Italian and seafood specialties for a day, then considerate owner-host ENRICO ROMANO will give his loyal staff the holiday off to be with their families. But they'll be waiting to welcome you the following Friday with all the menu specials and fun you always find at this popular spot at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica.

JIM SNIADOCKI is looking forward to a gala Thanksgiving at his SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City. A traditional turkey dinner, as well as the regular menu, will be served. YOLANDA'S, located in the Golden Gate Produce Terminal, South San Francisco, is expecting a full house of holiday diners. Chef Jim Castro will personally be preparing the Thanksgiving Day fare. Three traditional holiday entrees, lamb, ham and roast turkey, will be the menu enticements at BEARDSLEY'S in downtown Burlingame. Dimers ($6.95) will include all the festive trimmings. Thanksgiving Day service from 4 p.m. Reservations will be accepted.

LOU ERCOLI of the LEANING TOWER, South San Francisco, will feature a multi-course holiday dinner from 2 to 9 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day. Turkey, plus other traditional dishes, will be served. Early reservations are recommended.

Your appetite determines the tab at PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, where extra-choice steaks are cut to your exact order and weighed on a butcher's scale. The weight (in grams or ounces) determines the price of your dinner. The KING'S TABLE in Redwood City is a "best bet" for family dining on Thanksgiving Day. NORM and FERN LARSON's bountiful all-you-can-eat buffet will feature savory Roast Turkey with all the trimmings, Baked Ham, Barbecued Spare Ribs, and much more. Dinner will be featured all day from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Just $3.95 (children dine for less). LOUIS FRUTSCHI will be on hand to welcome guests at his L'AUBERGE restaurant in Redwood City on Thanksgiving Day. The regular menu of French cuisine, plus the traditional turkey dinner, will be served from 4 to 10 p.m.

Regular dining hours will prevail on Thanksgiving Day at TILLIE'S LIL FRANKFURT, located just a short drive from the mid-Peninsula in the Coastside's Moss Beach area. Diners wishing a holiday turkey dinner must make reservations in advance. The regular menu will also be available. MURRAY LEHR'S Disco Dance Contest is off to a smashing start at LEHR'S CABARET DISCO in San Francisco, with overflow crowds attending the weekly dance contests Tuesday evenings from 10 p.m. to midnight to cheer on their favorite dance team. The reason for all the excitement is the super grand prize — a fabulous round trip for two to London. Congratulations to the winners of the first weekly contest — LINDA and JERRY OWER of San Francisco. Anyone who is fond of seafood and Italian dishes is well aware of the quality specialties served at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant. Likewise, the full selection of fresh fish for cooking at home, which is available at the LICATAS' next-door FISH DEPOT. Not open Thanksgiving Day. It's a holiday off for the crew at the BAYHILL LOUNGE. Owners MEL CICERO and HARRY CURUSIS are "shutting" their popular San Bruno bistro for the holiday. Business as usual on Friday. THE TRI-SOUNDS entertain for dancing Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

VISUAL PERSPECTIVE ON ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION

Candlestick Park, shown here with a crowd of 56,000 people, is not large enough to seat all the illegal aliens presently living in the Bay Area, according to U.S. Immigration officials, who estimate there are 75,000 illegal immigrants living in the Bay Area.

At Year's End, End of a Dream

By ALAN QUALE

The three men spoke Spanish as they worked fast pace, tacking the carpet to the stairway inside the Burlingame home. It was the night before New Year's Eve and the foreman named Carlos, a red-haired Latino who also spoke fluent English, said they had a second carpet laying job to do that night before their work day would end.

When the carpet was in place on the stairway, Carlos wrote up the bill.

"Happy New Year!" chorused the Burlingame couple.

"Feliz Ano Nuevo," responded the workers.

The three men walked out the door and were immediately confronted by Burlingame police. When two of the men failed to produce a "green card" from the Immigration Service, they were handcuffed.

In the police car, was a third man, already handcuffed. Police said he was the reason they were there. The third man, part of the carpet-laying crew, was drunk and had been sleeping in the workers' van. When he awakened, he got out, stumbled to the wrong house, banged on the door and shouted something in Spanish. The startled homeowner called the police.

Only Carlos was a legal alien. Before the police took the other three men to jail to hold for Immigration officers, Carlos took off his sweater and put it on the shoulders of one-shirt-sleeved worker. He also took all the money from his wallet and stuffed the bills into the workers' pockets as they stood handcuffed.

Carlos knew Immigration officers would pick up the three men in the morning. In a day or two they would be deported by bus to Mexico. If the three were successful in sneaking back across the border, they would need money to get back to the Bay Area.

Carlos said the three would probably be back within two weeks. It seemed as though Carlos had experienced the situation before.

But he wondered what he would tell the wife of one of the workers — she was pregnant, he said, and living in San Francisco.

Illegal aliens are often apprehended by local police during incidents like this. Many more are caught by Immigration officers who raid shops and factories.

More than one million illegal aliens were apprehended in the U.S. (about 8,000 in the Bay Area) last year. Most were deported back to their native Mexico.

There are anywhere from 8 million to 12 million illegal aliens presently living in the U.S., according to estimates from the Immigration Service.

On the street corner in Burlingame that night, a smattering of people gathered to see what was happening. They discussed only the three arrested men.

Carlos argued that the police should not have arrested them because they were sure to come back. But a man from the neighborhood countered that if he was traveling in Mexico without proper documents and was stopped by police, he would surely be arrested.

Carlos said illegal aliens hold mostly lower paying jobs that Americans do not want. He did not say how much the arrested workers were paid.

Were the three arrested men "robbing" three unemployed Americans of jobs?

Even if they were competing with Americans for jobs, is that so wrong in a nation grown mostly from immigrants?

Would the three men make it back to the Bay Area?

The dialogue continued on the Burlingame street. But Carlos said he had to go, and climbed in the van. He had a much larger job to do that night — lay carpet inside a nearby restaurant. Since the other three workers were in jail, Carlos noted, there was only him left to do it.

'Only Crime Committed Is Fact They Want to Work'

The movement of thousands of illegal aliens into the United States from Mexico is a problem that can only be solved through the joint efforts of the federal governments in Washington, D.C., and Mexico City.

Both governments are partly responsible for illegal immigration.

That's the opinion of newly appointed San Mateo City Councilman Jose Villalobos. Born in Mexico, he is a legal immigrant to the U.S. who went on to become an American citizen and graduated from Stanford University with a master's degree in environmental engineering.

"I see it (illegal immigration) as a tremendous problem," said Villalobos, "but it is too easy to attack the undocumented workers because they have no defense. The only crime these people have committed is the fact they want to work."

Villalobos said part of the blame for illegal immigration must fall on the American government because "the current immigration laws we have are really not enforced."

"I don't see this as a problem that is being caused by the people coming here. It is caused by the many (American) industries that hire these people."

Moreover, Villalobos said, the American government has created a social-welfare system for unemployed Americans which, in many cases, "pays you to stay at home."

Thus, there are many lower paying jobs in the U.S. which continue to attract people not only from Mexico but "a whole bunch of nationalities," said Villalobos.

"Normally they (undocumented workers) take jobs other people won't do, such as dishwashers and busboys. You aren't going to find many that are accountants."

Undocumented workers come here from countries such as Mexico, said Villalobos, because the Mexican government has not done enough to try develop new and better jobs "so the little guy can make a buck...or a peso."

Compared to other Latin American governments, Villalobos said, the Mexican government has tried the most to redistribute the country's economic wealth amongst all the people. But the Mexican government has not done enough, he said, because "two percent of the people still control 90 percent of the wealth."

Furthermore, Villalobos claimed, political corruption is still rampant in Mexico and often stifles development of new business. He said many Mexican nationals have returned home to open a new business with capital earned in the U.S.
